

tinuous, unbroken whole. God in Jesus Christ has redeemed the world to himself.

The vision of the city of God is the climax of the book. But here the question of judgement too is important. God in Christ redeems and judges. Kingdom and judgement are inherent constituents in the teaching of Jesus (Jn 3:16-21).

The ample introduction and the select bibliography in the beginning are a real help to anyone who is serious about the study of the Book of Revelation. G. R. Beasley-Murray gives us substantial help in understanding and appreciating the difficult Book of Revelation.
